

SAVANNAH TREES IN GHANA: FARMERS' KNOWLEDGE ATTITUDES AND PRACTICES

by

David Young

A Dissertation presented for the degree of Master of Science
University of Edinburgh, 1997

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Many people have contributed to this research, both directly and indirectly. First and foremost the residents of Jumo, Charia, and Bo, and their associates in the Institute of Adult Education, Funsi Development Project and Nandom Agricultural Project. Without their will, cooperation and hospitality this work would not have been possible. My thanks go to all the staff at CEDEP, both in Kumasi and Wa, for their support and assistance. In particular Helen Angbing, Aidan Sabie Naah, and John Yelevielbayire who demonstrated enthusiasm, skill and experience throughout the fieldwork period.

My very great thanks go to Celia Marshall and Tony Dogbe and their family, for their hospitality, professional advice and above all, their friendship. Help with visas, finance and affiliation in Ghana came from Dr. Quashie-Sam and the staff at IRNR. Informal professional support in Ghana came from Jane Gronow, Esther Goodie, Joe Nchor, Matthew Bonye, James Duma and Linneas Kaboba. I would also like to thank the staff at Teegber Guest House, Anastasia, the Sibeko family and the Tenzagh family for accommodating and feeding me.

In the UK, I must thank the Davis Fund and the Agroforestry Options for Ghana Project for the financial support on which the fieldwork depended. I have benefited immensely from the support of my supervisors, Roy Fawcett and Andrew Inglis, who have both wholeheartedly endorsed my project from the start. A special thank you should also go to Dr. Drake Hocking who in 1986 provided the original inspiration to seek an understanding of the farmer's perspective, and who provided comments and criticism on this manuscript.

Finally I would like to thank my colleagues on the MSc programme, my friend Rachel, and my family who have all provided direction, reflection and distraction at the appropriate times.

F.3 Agreement between CEDEP Wa and David Young 3 June, 1997

David Young will provide an opportunity for members of CEDEP Wa Training and Consultancy Unit to gain confidence and practical experience in participatory approaches to research through their collaboration in his fieldwork. The terms of this collaboration are specified below.

- 1. The familiarisation week will conclude with a one day planning workshop on Friday 6th June with all three members of CEDEP TCU will be required to bring everyone to the same level of understanding regarding the process and the objectives. This will give both the TCU and David opportunity to agree the most appropriate tools and methods to use in order to meet these objectives, to assign individual responsibilities.
- 2. The first fieldwork period will be from Monday 9th June to Friday 13th June in Charia village, near Wa. All three members of the TCU will have the opportunity to work throughout the week in order to see the complete process. The first two days are expected to be taken up by PRA group exercises, and the remainder of the week by indepth semi-structured interviews and visits to farms. In both situations, as is usually the case with participatory research, we will be working to the local community's daily schedules, and will therefore at times have to work outside normal office hours. David will reside at Charia for the duration of the week, and he will be responsible for organising group meetings with village institutions, in conjunction with local opinion leaders.
- 3. The second fieldwork period will be from Monday 16th June to Friday 20th June, based at Funsi Agricultural Project and working in conjunction with Stephen Sibeko. One member of the TCU will be invited to stay for the first two days, and work on the PRA group exercises as described above. David will continue to stay in Funsi for the rest of the week.
- 4. The third fieldwork period will be from Monday 7th July to Friday 11th July, based in the Nandom area. One member of the TCU will be invited to stay for the first two days, and work on the PRA group exercises as described above. David will continue to stay in the village for the rest of the week. The precise location of this period will be decided by David, in consultation with Nandom Agriculture Project (who may also offer a research colleague) and others, in the week before 7th July.
- 5. Per diems for CEDEP staff for the overnight stays in Funsi and Nandom will be paid by CEDEP at the usual rate. Travel arrangements for CEDEP staff will be the responsibility of CEDEP, although fuel costs will be met by David. The cost of any necessary materials will be covered by David.
- 6. Writing up of the research findings will be the responsibility of David, and will be completed by 21st July, when David will return to Kumasi and then to the UK. All colleagues in the research process will be duly acknowledged. A draft copy of the findings will be provided to CEDEP, followed by a copy of the full thesis in due course.
